

What A Famous Mining Expert Says About The Rhode Island Coal Co.

PORTSMOUTH, R. I., Oct. 13.—The Rhode Island Coal Company presents the best coal-mining proposition I have ever seen. The product of this mine, as prepared for market, is superior in quality to that of the average Pennsylvania anthracite. The coal is here in practically unlimited quantities. On a maximum production basis of 5,000 tons per day, the mine should not be exhausted within the next fifty years. In making these statements I am not guessing. I have thoroughly investigated every phase of the enterprise. I know that the coal, chemically treated, burns as readily as Scranton, Lehigh or Franklin; and as to the quantity embraced within the Company's property, I stand by the records of the diamond drillers and the former operations."

William F. Sekol, who made this statement, is one of the foremost mining engineers in the United States. For twenty-five years he has been in the employ of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad, which, next to the Reading, is the largest producer of anthracite coal in the country.

It is estimated that upon Mr. Sekol's judgment, the D., L. & W. has spent nearly $50,000,000 in the development of its coal properties, and it is said that not a single instance have his recommendations failed to be verified. He was born of German parents in southern Hungary forty-four years ago.

and his father before him was for thirty-five years superintendent of one of the largest coal mines in that country. Practically his entire life has been spent in the service of the D. L. & W. As mining engineer of this great company, he has had entire charge of the field operations of a staff of nearly one hundred engineers, under whose supervision there is produced annually more than 10,000,000 tons of the best grade of anthracite coal. Mr. Sekol has been engaged as mining engineer for the Rhode Island Coal Company, and from January 1, 1910, this Company will exclusively control his services. He made a flying trip to the Portsmouth mine recently to supervise the erection of Top Republican managers in the Kincaid Building are grooming more active every day. Governor Draper has been assigned Monday night. The place has not yet been selected. The plan is to have a press conference refuting the Republican innuovatives.

Lebanon Governor Frothingham will deliver the invocation at the 10 o'clock ceremony opening Friday evening before the 100th anniversary of Framingham, Mass. The Hon. J. W. C. Smith, State District Attorney will speak the same evening.

Senator Harry B. Morse for member of the House of Representatives, and Representative Elmer Curtis of Hingham for member of the State Civil Service Commission will be present according to gossip among Republican circles.

Organized labor's resolution at their convention in New York City to "eliminate our enemies" has put a kink in the plans of the anti-unionists. They are now to crack the whip over certain labor Republi-

John N. Cook, former Speaker of the House of Representatives, is still forgotten by the G. O. P. managers as a campaign speaker. He's the only Republican whose name gets into the newspapers who hasn't been drafted by the Draper managers to speak in the State campaign.

The patient is unable to perform any muscular work; the person cannot walk very far and tires quickly on attempting physical exertion. There is ringing in the ears, a feeling of vertigo, and vertigo; specks floating before the eyes, and a general restlessness. The ability to sustain prolonged intellectual work is interfered with, and the patient imagines he is losing his memory.

Neurasthenics continually watch for new symptoms, unconsciously exaggerating the importance of the least trifling importance to them. Causeless fear is often suffered from; a dread of some and enabling us to produce say thirty tons of coal a day. I am informed that a market for this coal exists in the immediate vicinity of the mine. By April 1st next, when the large breakers are installed, we should be producing three or four hundred tons a day, increasing from day to day to 1000 tons, and from that on the capacity will increase to 5000 tons daily. Ultimately we shall have in our employ about 1000 miners and helpers.

"We believe, out in Pennsylvania, that we know how to burn anthracite coal. We wash our ashes and screen the debris, and of the total amount of ash we recover about fifty per cent. coal. It will never pay the consumer to screen Rhode Island Coal, for the simple reason that it burns down to nothing but a fine red ash, an ash similar in appearance to that of hard wood. As to the briquetting phase of the enterprise, that is in expert hands. In Scran-

"We have a briquetting plant which secures its coal dust from the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western and sells its finished product to the same localities as the original coal. It has been found that burning locomotive briquettes is more economical than coal itself. Many believe that they will become more numerous are introduced into New England the demand will be far in excess of what we can turn out. Briquettes are unquestionably the coming source of fuel."

"Within a year the Rhode Island Coal Company will possess one of the finest equipped mines in the United States. In addition to our two existing shafts we will have vertical shafts, by means of which the product can be taken directly to the surface. The company also contemplates installing machinery to save the expense of re-handling, are holding two and a half tons of coal now on hand, and these will come up our present shafts in strings of three. Even with existing shafts we shall be able to bring out fifteen tons of coal daily. Our new shafts will be capable of producing fifty tons per day. When the breakers are put automatically down after being crushed, the coal will pass over succession of screens, separating it into stove, chestnut and pea sizes, and will then pass into a chemical bath; thence it will be carried out by conveyors and dumped into the several compartments, from which the cars will be loaded by gravity. The fine coal will be conveyed into the boiler plant and the screenings and a cold water supply to the boiler plant and gas producer engines. The ashes from the boiler room will go back into the mine to fill up the old workings.

"The Portsmouth mine offers no unusual engineering difficulties. In some respects the proposition is extremely simple. In the matter of water, for example, there is no problem to be met. The mine is the driest I have ever seen. We may find, when we get at depth, that some of the veins run under day. In that case we shall follow them as far as safety permits. In Pennsylvania we are mining under rivers whose beds are founded on quicksand, and yet we find no serious obstacles. Conditions at Portsmouth are so much better all around than the engineer usually meets that to avoid enthusiasm is impossible. I give it as my unqualified opinion that within two years the Rhode Island Coal Company will be in possession of one of the biggest producing and best paying coal mines in the United States."

Subconscious Mind an Aid to Happiness

By ELIA WHEELER WILCOX

THE metaphysical thought of the day is usually quick in its effect in the mind and the subliminal thought of the day is usually slow in its effect in the mind.

There are hundreds of women in the world who are suffering from the effects of the subconscious mind.

When the subconscious mind is revealed to women who are unhappy in their domestic affairs, it becomes more difficult to apply it with success.

There are hundreds of women in the world who are suffering from the effects of the subconscious mind.

The Good Sweet Away

If she compares herself to do this because some halfhearted teacher tells her it is the way to happiness, she goes forth from her room at a loss to find out what she is to do.

But she knows the mind has ceased to love her, and especially when she knows or believes that he has become fascinated elsewhere. It requires the will of a conqueror and a self-control rarely met for her to sit in the silence of her room and wait for the subconscious mind to reveal to her the truth.

And as for the moments "in the silence" she sits down and under waves of sorrow.

But she knows the mind has ceased to love her, and especially when she knows or believes that he has become fascinated elsewhere.

There is a mother who found her husband growing more and more reckless in his habits, despite her utmost entreaties and prayers.

The Mother's Work

All this mother has to do is to be the mother of the night who is kept up mentally. "You are my own good little boy, you have given up drink and wild associates. You are awake spiritually and mentally, you are a good boy, you are on the wrong path, you are turning your back on all the habits that pain me and degrade you."

And, no matter what the day brought forth, no matter how the words she slightly uttered, she continued to utter them. And finally they reached the subconscious mind of her son, and he began to know why he came to a realization of his own errors and to a resolve to change them for a more wholesome method of life.

She has been but only a cripple in the eyes of her son, but she has been but only a cripple in the eyes of her son.

And she has been but only a cripple in the eyes of her son, but she has been but only a cripple in the eyes of her son.

And she has been but only a cripple in the eyes of her son, but she has been but only a cripple in the eyes of her son.

And she has been but only a cripple in the eyes of her son, but she has been but only a cripple in the eyes of her son.

The Humorous Anti-Suffragist--By Dorothy Dix

The position of woman is like that of matching a cripple in a race with a trained athlete.

Should Mr. Edison vote and not Mr. Edison's electricity? Should the cotton picker vote and not the cotton picker's cotton? Should the woman vote and not the woman's vote?

Does Mrs. Jones want to imply that our forefathers did all of their plumbing about 1876? If she does she needs to be taken into account in setting the question of woman's right to vote.

Mrs. Jones says: "The State can never look to the woman in the future, for she is a child of the present, and she is a child of the past." And she, who would be turned down by any intelligent man, but who would be turned down by any intelligent man.
